Report

The following workshop was conducted for post-graduates and undergraduate students. Dr. Harikrishnan comes with a rich academic background and diverse international experience. He has diversified research experience in orthodontics, Oral surgery, Microbiology, Mechanical engineering and biomaterials. Most of the procedures in dentistry are material-dependent for the therapeutic benefits. Materials behavior is vital for clinician's knowledge who is handling the materials. Dentists should understand the properties of materials as relevant to the applications. Materials analysis is less understood and collaboration with material scientist is sparse in our country. This talk highlighted the importance of clinician researchers in material research for the future outcome of better materials for the patient community. All the postgraduates as well as undergraduate enjoyed interacting with Dr. Harikrishnan and gaining additional knowledge on material science.
